Indochina Session Conflict

East, West Are Split Over Chairmanship; May Bring a Delay In Peace Parleys

GENEVA P—East and West were reported split today over the chairmanship of the Indochina sessions of the Geneva conference. There were signs the negotiations to bring peace in Indochina may have to be postponed until next week.

Delegates had hoped to open the talks tomorrow or Saturday. Vietnamese and Laotian delegates got in today. The rebel Vietnamese contingent already was on hand. But the hope for quick action faded with the lack of agreement on the chairmanship and the fact delegates from Cambodia, partner of Viet Nam and Laos in the Associated States of Indochina, have not arrived in Geneva.

And a Paris crisis over the Indochina war situation competed for the attention of the diplomats in Geneva. The fate of Premier Joseph Laniel's government was tied to a vote of confidence in the French National Assembly. Experts predicted that, after hours of debate, Laniel would win. Foreign Minister Georges Bidault decided to stay on the job here, rather than return to Paris personally to combat an outburst of parliamentary criticism.

The French Cabinet, meeting in advance of the Assembly session, drafted fresh instructions for Bidault on the Indochina negotiations and assigned Marc Jaquet, minister for the Associated States, to bear them to Geneva. There was no hint as to what the instructions were.

U. S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith received from British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden an account of discussions Eden had with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov after a dinner meeting at the Briton's villa last night.

An informed source said that Eden, acting on behalf of the United States, France and other interested countries, suggested a chairmanship rotating among Bidault, Eden and Molotov. While Molotov did not immediately reject this suggestion, it was said he showed no great interest in it.

The informant said two other proposals had previously run into snags: The Communist turned down Prince Wan Waithayakon of Thailand as sole chairman and the French were understood to have rejected continuance for the Indochina talks of the arrangement followed for the Korean debate—a chair rotating among Prince Wan and Molotov.

Tiet Nam's deputy Premier Nguyen Trung Vinh heads the Vietnamese delegation which arrived here today. He was accompanied by Foreign Minister Nguyen Quoc Dinh and Democratization Minister Nguyen Dac Khe. Khe promptly told a news conference his government, headed by ex-Emperor Bao Dai, "was not made to betray the past, present and future of the nation" and would never accept partition.

Laos' high commissioner to Paris, Prince Khammou, got in on the same train as the Vietnamese. A dispatch from Saigon aid other members of the Laotian delegation headed by vice Premier-Foreign Minister Phouli Sananikone, left that city today by air for Geneva.

The chief of the Cambodian delegation will be Foreign Minister Tee Phan. Among its members will be Nong Kimmy, Cambodian ambassador to Washington. He is to arrive tomorrow.

With Viet Nam taking a firm position against division of Indochina into rival spheres of influence, the French delegation here was reported under great pressure from home to give in. Bidault, in a ticklish situation, was said to be resisting all suggestions for settlement terms that did not contain guarantees against Communist duplicity.

Laniel demanded a ballot of confidence, requiring him to resign if defeated, on his refusal to open Assembly debate on Indochina while the Geneva parley is under way. Some deputies demanded that the debate start May 14.

A dance, sponsored by the United Civic Center, will be held at Convention Hall at 8:30 p. m. Saturday. Music will be by the Whisker Band of Stover.

Unfamiliar May

May is certainly unfair. First she gives us a deep breeze treatment, nipping no end of garden produce almost in the bud, while acting like October. Now she's dripping rain like April. Her flowers are anxious for her attention, not."

Runs 4 Minute Mile

Roger Bannister, On Oxford Track, Sets Mark of 3:59.4; Conditions Unfavorable

OXFORD, England P—Roger Bannister was clocked in three minutes 59.4 seconds today to achieve athletem's greatest goal—the four minute mile.

The former Oxford ace, running on his familiar Oxford track, bettered the listed world record of 4:01.4 set by Sweden's Gunder Haegg in 1945.

On the way to his fantastic clocking he equalled unofficially the 1,500 meter record of 3:43.

Conditions for the race today were unfavorable.

Building Boom Shows In April's Permits

Total of $158,850 Construction Authorized; Amount Is Double Same Month a Year Ago

The estimated cost of building construction in Sedalia during April was more than double what it was for the same month last year, representing part of the year, meaning the building boom this spring that has architects and contractors scrambling to keep up with the demand.

This construction has nothing to do with that going on west of the city limits, but is confined to buildings in the city itself.

Estimated cost of building in Sedalia last month was $158,850 while for a year ago it was only $73,800.

Last month permits were issued for 18 new homes compared with only 11 for the year before, with the same number of garages—five were put up this April, as last April. In April, 1953, there were more improvements, most of them room additions. There were nine improvements then, totaling $11,500, compared with only eight improvements this April, at an estimated cost of only $5,150.

One small business building, a storage room, was put up for an estimated $500 in April of last year, while this year two major business buildings have been licensed. One of them is going up at Second and Massachusetts and will cost an estimated $14,000. The Dean Construction Co. is handling the work. The other project is a series of motel units being put up by E. E. Lingle for Wesley Morris at 1010 South Limt at an estimated cost of $17,000.

But it was the increase in the number of homes that made the big difference in construction last. This April the estimated cost of the 18 homes was set at $120,500, while for the same month last year the 11 homes were estimated to cost only $59,000.

Permits to build homes were issued last month to: William E. Murray, 1302 South Beacon, five rooms; Lena Blader, 1639 South Barrett, five rooms; Logan M. Phillips, 1902 East Sixth, four rooms; C. G. Eck, 1800 East Fifth, six rooms; Jesse White, 1815 South Beacon, four rooms; Frank McGinley, 1107 East 17th, five rooms; George H. Meyers, 626 East 18th, four rooms; Harold Ford, 1706 East Sixth, four rooms; Dr. A. R. Macdonald, 508 North Oregon, eight rooms; White and Garner, 511 Sunset Drive, six rooms; Charles F. Evans, 1917 West Third, five rooms; W. E. Bingaman, 513 Sunset Drive, six rooms; E. W. Goetz, 1615 West Ninth, five rooms; Aaron Smith, 1807 South Harrison, five rooms; B. J. Mecum, 1930 East Seventh, six rooms; Howard Robinson, 760 South Carr, five rooms; E. E. Lingle, 2008 East Seventh, four rooms; and Guy D. Bailey, 514 Sunset Drive, five rooms.

Permits to build garages were issued to: Sherman Frederick, 1401 South Vermont; J. H. Green, 1402 South Vermont; W. W. Fowler, 814 East 16th; Kent D. Johnson,

Gillette Says US Suffered Geneva Setback

Blames Split GOP Administration Minus A Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON P—Sen. Guy Gillette (I-Iowa) told a national Democratic conference today the United States has suffered "an astounding and unprecedented reversal" at Geneva on the question of Indochina. He blamed it on what he called a "split" Republican administration lacking a foreign policy.

WASHINGTON P—Sen. Guy Gillette (I-Iowa) told a national Democratic conference today the United States has suffered "an astounding and unprecedented reversal" at Geneva on the question of Indochina. He blamed it on what he called a "split" Republican administration lacking a foreign policy.

Secretary of State Dulles said yesterday the Geneva talks are going about as anticipated and that knows of nothing that has happened to justify an interpretation that the United States had suffered any defeat.

President Eisenhower told his news conference a few hours later he had unqualified faith in Dulles. He said no one loses a battle while the battle is still going on.

Gillette said selection of a Democratic Congress in November would not cure "the split in the Republican party, which may well be incurable, but it will heal the breach in our government and allow the President to lead America in the leadership of the free world."

Gillette, a Foreign Relations Committee member, said the country will live to regret the administration's decision not to use the United Nations machinery to halt the Indochina war.

"We could have halted the Red aggressor before the bar of world opinion," he said, "but we preferred to revert to outworn methods of military intervention."

Gillette's remarks were prepared for a panel on "American security" at the second day's session of the Democratic National Committee meetings. The party with a $100-a-plate Jefferson-Jackson dinner at which former President Truman will be an informal speaker.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson and Rep. Sam Rayburn, Texas leaders of the minority party in Senate and House, will be billed for "major speeches" to pep up the drive for election of Democratic majorities in Congress in November.

Truman's views on the subject were reported by Edward F. Woods of the Post-Dispatch, who accompanied Truman on an early morning stroll in Washington.

Woods asked the former President what was wrong with the young men of this generation "that they stand by like clods and permit an attractive young woman like Margaret to run around loose." Woods said Truman replied with a chuckle:

"I don't know what's going on, but old maids sort of run in my family. Margaret may be leaning in that direction. But I sure hope not."

Dulles Will Report On Geneva Friday

WASHINGTON P—The State Department said today Secretary Dulles "will make a report to the American people" tomorrow night on the Geneva conference and the Indochina crisis. He will speak over radio and TV networks at 8:30 p. m. EST—7:30 p. m. CST.

Press Office Lincoln White said the speech would run for a half an hour and that the precise broadcasting arrangements will be still being worked out. Dulles will speak from a television studio here.

Considerable cloudiness to-night and Friday with occasional showers. Low temperatures near 50. High Friday night—the upper 60s.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 48; 64 at 1 p. m. and 65 at 2 p. m. Rainfall .06 inch.

One year ago today here high 57, low 46; two years ago 62, 61; three years ago 69, 41.

Officer Nearly Falls For Girl's Fish Story

SPRINGFIELD, Colo. (P)—Game Warden Preston Steele, coming upon a family fishing at Two Buttes Reservoir, asked a girl in the party for her fishing license.

She said she was only 16 and was just holding the pole while her mother took care of her baby brother. She promised to buy a license the next day, so Steele took no action.

None that is until he learned the girl is 20. (2) is married and (3) the "baby brother" is really her son. She was fined $30 for fishing without a license.

Fights Hubby's Right To Chihuahua Puppy

LOS ANGELES (P)—Concert violinist Elliott Fisher's wife has countered him for divorce, declaring he has no community interest in Ricky, a 5-month-old Chihuahua puppy.

(1) Mrs. Lisette Fisher, 22, alleged Ricky was a gift to her from her husband before their estrangement.

Fisher's divorce suit, filed earlier, listed the dog as community property along with $1,500 worth of jewelry and $600 worth of household effects.

Doctors at Ann Arbor's University Hospital diagnosed the illness yesterday. They said the young student is being given daily blood transfusions. She may live possibly two more months, they said.

The State Department has arranged air transportation and a nurse to accompany her home.

It's Like a Call On Magic...

Knock on Wood, Most Common Of the 80,000 Superstitions

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

ST. LOUIS.—"Knocking on wood" for luck is one of the most common of 80,000 superstitions, a psychiatrist said today, and here's why:

It can be a call on magic, a way of handling anxiety or worry, a defense against envy, a sign that emotionally you're pretty immature.

This analysis was presented to the American Psychiatrist Association by Dr. Judi Marmor, University of California at Los Angeles.

Some people knock on wood very seriously, others do it with a smile, others say it while tapping their heads jokingly.

It apparently stems from a primitive belief of protective gods inside trees, Dr. Marmor said. Therefore, touching wood when making any boasting statement would ward off evil consequences.

Touching or knocking on wood represents a fear of antagonizing some all-seeing higher authority. Along with this, we have many sayings—such as "Pride goeth before a fall"—indicating that we must be humble and submissive.

Dr. Marmor said we apparently assume that pride, success or self-confidence will create envy or antagonism by some "authority." This apparently traces back to childish fears of offending such authorities as parents or brothers or sisters, and to the feeling you must be humble and compliant in order to be loved.

In our highly competitive society, "knocking on wood" takes on additional meanings, he said. We try to make light of our good fortunes to avoid envy by our fellows or rivals.

Former Crown Princess Of Prussia Dies at 67

Former Crown Princess Cecile of Prussia died here in her sleep early today after a long illness. She was 67.

Her son, Prince Louis Ferdinand of Prussia, head of the former German royal house of Hohenzollern, and his wife, Princess Kyra, were at the bedside.

Prince Louis Ferdinand announced yesterday that his mother was suffering from a circulatory ailment.

Before her marriage to Crown Prince Wilhelm, son of the last Kaiser, in 1905, Princess Cecile was the Duchess of Mecklenburg. Her husband died in 1951.

So we knock on wood to indicate we are just lucky, or say our health "is not bad" when it's really excellent, or say business is "fair" when it's quite good.

Knocking on wood can also be a call upon magical powers, or for protection against evil powers, to help us out in the competition.

"Many people will discuss intimate aspects of their sex lives sooner than the details of their financial structure, particularly if there are any assets which might arouse envy."

Superstitions like this, he said, represent efforts to deal with anxiety or fearfulness stemming from man's being aware he is helpless against some things which he doesn't know, or only dimly understand.

He said such superstitions can be expected to disappear not merely by advances in knowledge, but as humans resolve their unconscious feelings of helplessness and insecurity and hence no longer feel a need to depend upon magic.

New Quicker Salk Vaccine Test Is Ready

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A new test will make possible a quicker check on the effectiveness of the Salk polio vaccine.

Dr. Jonas E. Salk, who developed the vaccine, and Dr. J. S. Younger, both of the University of Pittsburgh, explained the new test at a session yesterday of the Society of American Bacteriologists.

They said the test employs changes to show whether the blood of an inoculated child has developed sufficient antibodies to kill live polio viruses.

Dr. Salk said the new testing techniques had already been made available to laboratories cooperating in the current nationwide field trials of his vaccine.

Briefly, the test consists of placing blood sample from a vaccinated child in a test tube with polio virus and other substances. The test tube is then placed in an incubator for seven days. If the effect.

The FBI said Menard, 27, and his wife, Dolores Rose, 26, are wanted in connection with a series of safecracking and robberies in the St. Louis area.

New Orleans police said they were questioning Menard in connection with a supermarket robbery here Monday.

President Signs Largest Highway Assistance Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed a record size highway aid bill and expressed the hope that road construction can be stepped up to an even more rapid pace.

With a congressional delegation looking on at a White House ceremony, the President put his name to a measure authorizing $66 million dollars in federal aid for highway building in each of two years. The money will be used to assist the states in the construction.

The program will start July 1, 1955.

Eisenhower used seven pens to sign the bill. He finished signing his name with the sixth and said with a grin:

"By golly, that's about all I can use unless I use one for a period." And he did.

Then turning to the members of Congress grouped around his desk, the President laughed and said:

"Now we've got a highway bill. Now if you fellows will get that other bill for me today, The St. Lawrence Seaway, we will be improving our transportation."

That remark was directed to the House members present. The Senate already has passed a bill authorizing United States participation in construction of the seaway project. The measure is up in the House.

McCarthy Probe

(Continued From Page One) say whether he had decided to change his testimony after he learned that Seaton and a "newsmen" had testified last night and this morning at a closed meeting of the subcommittee.

"No, sir," Stevens replied.

"Are you as positive about this, Bob, as you were about the meeting on the 24th of February?" McCarthy asked.

"I've answered the question," Stevens snapped.

McCarthy asked Stevens, whether his counsel, Joseph Welch, had advised him that Seaton was called to testify this morning.

"He did not," Stevens replied.

McCarthy said it was an important question whether Welch had been committed or whether someone had induced another to swear falsely.

The photostats were of a statement made of the FBI by W. Sentner, one of the defendants, during his testimony in 1943. Sentner had heard this morning that Seaton was being called but that he knew nothing about any newsmen. Furthermore Stevens said, Welch has no knowledge as to the nature of Seaton's testimony.

McCarthy demanded that Stevens check his diary on the point of whether a newsmen attended the Feb. 24 conference. He suggested that the secretary do this before the transcript of today's hearing goes to the Justice Department.

McCarthy told Stevens he had complained to the secretary of "concern" looks and erroneous stories from the Pentagon reflecting upon this committee.

Stevens said he didn't recall this. He said it was his policy "to do everything in my power to prevent leaks."

Bob Thomas In Hollywood...

Janet Gaynor Taking Another Fling at Acting In the Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Janet Gaynor, Seznick banner, one of her last who won the first Academy Award films was the classic "A Star Is Born." In 1938, she disappeared from acting. But she says it won't become a habit.

Tonight she does her second TV drama, enacting the role of a mother on Lux Video Theater. When I saw her before rehearsals at CBS, she seemed excited over the role.

"It's fun to do a part that is intriguing," she said. "But I don't want any full-scale return to acting.

After all, I've had my share of the acting life. From now on, anything I do will be for pleasure alone. I have no ambition to resume my career."

This is actually Miss Gaynor's third return to acting since she did her last film, "Young in Heart," in 1938. (It is now playing on TV.) A few years ago, she joined her long-time co-star Charles Farrell in their classic "Seventh Heaven" over Lux Radio. Recently she did her first TV drama over Medallion Theater in New York.

Both those shows drew an amazing mail reaction. Officials of Medallion Theater reported the fan letters numbered 10 times the usual amount.

Miss Gaynor has a solid appeal for those in their 30s and over, who remember her winsome performances in the '20s and '30s. A Philadelphia girl, she rose rapidly to fame in Hollywood, winning the Oscar in 1928. She was chosen not for one role, as is the custom today, but for three films: "Seventh Heaven," "Sunrise" and "Street Angel."

She, Will Rogers and Shirley Temple kept the old Fox lot from bankruptcy in the early '30s. After such hits as "Sunny Side Up," "The First Year" and "State Angel."

Rebels Getting Set for New, Huge Assault

HANOI, (UPI)—Vietminh troops crushing in on Dien Bien Phu regrouped and bolstered their attack positions early today but gave no indication when they would unleash their next massive assault.

French army headquarters reported the critical hours of darkness last night passed "calmly" for the garrison troops stubbornly clinging to the core of the fortress defenses. The maze of trenches, dugouts and bunkers is now less than five eighths of a mile across.

It was the second night in a row without ground action.

Rebel artillery and mortars, however, kept up incessant pounding of key French positions to soften the way for the next infantry charge. Hitting back French guns lobbed more shells into enemy positions in the encircling hills.

French firepower was backed by warplanes during a few hours of clear weather yesterday. The fighters and bombers concentrated their heaviest blows southeast of Dien Bien Phu, attempting to knock out guns bombarding the isolated southernmost stronghold, "Isabelle."

Vietminh soldiers digging trenches in the mud flats around the main French barricade were reported within 40 yards—grenade-throwing distance—of the outer barbed-wire entanglements. Enemy spearheads in one sector were only 600 yards from the headquarters of Gen. Christian de Castries, the French said.

The Vietminh radio, heard in Hong Kong, claimed the rebels had hacked their way to within 330 feet of the command post. The Communist radio admitted the attackers had to struggle hard for each foot of new ground but claimed the fighting had been a "chain of victories."

Flying boxcars and C47s, furnished to the French by the United States, managed to hit Dien Bien Phu's tiny target area with more paratroop reinforcements and antiaircraft and other supplies during yesterday's brief break in the dreich summer monsoons.

Six huge U.S. Air Force Globemasters were on their way from southern France with 450 critically needed French army and Air Force technicians. They took off yesterday from Marseille. The long-distance flight was the second big American ferrying job for the French in three weeks.

No Votes Are Cast In N. M. Primary

RATON, N. M. (UPI)—Officially, the New Mexico primary vote in Vermejo Park precinct of Colfax County will be zero for all candidates.

The 18 registered Democrats and seven registered Republicans either forgot or didn't care that Tuesday was election day.

Mrs. Tom Farmer, county clerk, says a resident of the tiny community in the wide ranchland of northern New Mexico reported no votes had been cast.

Zsa Zsa Is Chilled When Ruby's Plane Has Heater Trouble

SHANNON, Ireland (UPI)—Zsa Zsa Gabor started out for New York today with Porfirio Rubirosa but landed here complaining "I'm frozen." The dapper Dominican's private plane developed heater trouble en route from Paris.

Zsa Zsa, complaining of the chill, hopped off the plane bundled up in a full-length mink, blue jeans, two cardigan sweaters and white wool ankle socks.

When it appeared it would take some time to fix the plane, a converted B25, Zsa Zsa hurried off to the airport hotel to get some rest.

Rubirosa, who stood by silently while his blonde companion did the talking, wore gray slacks and a blue blazer.

Returns From State Church Convention

Mrs. W. A. Ball, president, gave return home from Kansas City where she attended the 115th annual convention of the Christian Churches of Missouri, which was held at the Independence Boulevard Christian Church, April 27 through April 30.

The Christian Women's Fellowship celebrated 75 years of organized missionary work, with a very colorful pageant and a gift of two million dollars from the women.

This money will be used to rehabilitate two schools in Japan—one for boys and one for girls, which had all of their plumbing and heating equipment ripped out and used for the manufacture of ammunition during World War II.

Queen Healthy, Though Skinny, Near End of Tour

LONDON — The British press assured its readers today that Queen Elizabeth II—although somewhat skinny—is in sound health as she nears the end of her long Commonwealth voyage.

Two papers said she lost only five pounds. Another speculated that she had been deliberately slimming.

The Daily Sketch threw some subjects into a tizzy yesterday by remarking that the young monarch had lost weight and "looks fine-drawn and tired." It drove home the point with two pictures—one taken before the six-month royal tour began and the other Tuesday at Malta.

In the latter photograph the Queen looked almost angular.

The Daily Mirror reported from Valletta, however, that at the royal ball last night Elizabeth "looked positively radiant."

"Since the start of her gigantic tour, it's true she lost five pounds in weight," the Mirror said. "And she had a little chill at Aden a few days ago which she has shaken off. But the Queen is not tired in any sense that can cause alarm."

The Daily Herald also estimated that Elizabeth had lost about five pounds, but said this "isn't surprising in view of the heat during her strenuous tour."

The Herald quoted a member of the royal entourage as declaring: "The Queen is feeling perfectly fit."

Churchill Outtalked Radford

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Two of the most persuasive personalities in the western world—Winston Churchill and Adm. Arthur Radford—met in London for vital unpublicized talk on Indo-China the other day and, though it hasn't been announced, Churchill proved himself the most persuasive.

The question at issue was whether Great Britain should support the United States and back up our proposed intervention in Indo-China.

Secretary of State Dulles, who also talked with Churchill on his earlier trip to Europe, got nowhere with him. The aged and forceful prime minister of England would not even join the United States in a declaration of warning to Russia.

Following this, Admiral Radford stopped off in London to try his luck with Churchill. Radford is considered one of the most dynamic men in Washington. In fact, he won his job as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff partly by his persuasive personality. For, when President-elect Eisenhower stopped off at Iwo Jima on his trip to Korea, Radford met him, took Ike for an hour's walk while the plane refueled, and during that time sold him a lot of ideas such as rebuilding Chiang Kai-shek's navy for use against the Chinese mainland.

Ike was so impressed that he asked Radford to accompany him on the remainder of the trip to Korea.

Since then Radford has been the only member of the joint chiefs of staff who has favored U.S. intervention in Indo-China. But he has managed to sell Eisenhower on that policy—provided our western allies went along.

So, with Dulles having failed to win Churchill, Admiral Radford himself stopped to see him.

The prime minister, however, was adamant.

He said that American intervention in Indo-China would be the biggest mistake the United States could ever make. And Radford, despite his logic and eloquence could not budge him.

Note—After his talk with Churchill, Radford was suddenly called home. He was not scheduled to return, but got White House instructions to come back immediately—presumably to report to the National Security Council.

McCarthy and Taxes

A lot of people don't realize it—including at first this writer and probably the secretary of the Army—but it was one Dwight D. Eisenhower who played into McCarthy's hands by permitting him to examine income-tax returns.

Without an order from the President, it's a penitentiary offense for the treasury to give tax returns to anyone, even a senator. However, on Feb. 19, 1953, Eisenhower signed a blanket executive order, No. 10435, giving the McCarthy committee and other investigating committees

the power to get any income-tax returns they wanted merely by writing a letter to the treasury.

Hence Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews has no choice about giving McCarthy all tax returns—if Joe asks for them.

Thus it was that, when McCarthy learned

Assistant Secretary of Defense Struve Hensel was helping to prepare the Army's case against him, all he had to do was ask for Hensel's tax returns and he got them—as well as those of various other Pentagon people.

Mixed Their Johnsons

Postmaster General Summerfield's publicity

boys got things a bit mixed up the other day.

Planning a big buildup for a fancy, new, red-white-and-blue mail truck, they wanted the two top members of the senate post office committee, Frank Carlson of Kansas and Olin Johnston of South Carolina, to pose for the newscasts in front of the truck.

However, the post office got its Johnstons mixed, and invited Sen. Ed Johnson of Colorado instead of Olin Johnson of South Carolina.

Ed had nothing to do with the post office;

he has even announced he won't run again for the Senate. But by the time the publicity boys discovered their mistake, big good-natured Ed of Colorado showed up, ready to pose in front of the red-white-and-blue truck.

So the red-faced post office promoters went ahead and took 300 feet of film with the right

Carlson but the wrong Johnson.

Treat Wounds Quickly And Avoid Many Bad Infections

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

Nearly all of us at one time or other have had our skin cut or torn by accident or injury. What we do about it may be important.

The first point to remember is not to try to take care of a wound ourselves which is serious enough to require medical attention. The second is that cleanliness is exceedingly important.

Wounds or cuts made by dirty objects are more likely to produce trouble than those made by clean ones.

For this reason the liberal use of soap and water is the best first step in treatment. This alone gets rid of more germs and dirt than almost anything else which can be used.

The third point to decide is what antiseptic or germicide should be put on. There are many of them, including tincture of iodine and many chemical combinations containing mercury, silver, and certain dyes.

Unfortunately, there is no one of these preparations which seem to be superior as an all-purpose antiseptic. Tincture of iodine causes some stinging in open wounds, but seems to be just about as good as the others so far as its effect on germs is concerned, though it tends to burn and slightly damage the tissue. Certainly it should not be used more than once or twice on the same wound.

Each of the antiseptics marketed by reputable companies seem to have some advantages and some disadvantages. One or more should be in every medicine cabinet and used for minor cuts or injuries, but cleansing with soap and water should not be neglected.

The search for a perfect antiseptic or germicide has gone on ever since bacteria were known to exist. Such a preparation has not yet been found, though good ones are available. Unfortunately, most chemical substances which attack germs also tend to destroy or harm the tender human tissues with which they come in contact.

Only President's Leadership Can Increase National Unity

By Bruce Biossat

Not long ago President Eisenhower lamented that the American people and press seem to be captivated by the things that divide the country, rather than the things that draw them together.

Actually, this is an old lament in new dress. People are always interested in conflict, and editors know it. Furthermore, the newspapers cannot in any real sense control the content of the news. They simply reflect what is going on.

If there is conflict, it will be reported. It could not possibly be played down and other news played up and still leave newspapers any claim to doing a full and honest job.

Admittedly the divisive forces working within this nation are more powerful than at any other time in the country's history except the Civil War. Indeed, more than one observer of national affairs has gone so far as to say we are today engaged in a sort of cold civil war.

Whether or not the matter has reached that extreme, the conflicts are sharp and the differences wide. And the combatants appear to grow more harsh and humorless as the days pass.

Mr. Eisenhower evidently wishes these unhappy divisions could all be brushed away and we could attack our problems as a unified people. It would be nice, but it is not so easy as that.

To be sure, some Americans magnify and play upon these conflicts, for a variety of reasons, often quite personal. But at base this schism goes deep into the hearts and minds of the people. (How can they be expected to be disinterested in a contest in which they themselves are the main participants?)

The American people today are highly troubled by the world they live in. They see many things happening that they do not like, both at home and abroad. They are pressed in a hundred ways they never dreamed of a decade and a half ago.

The divisions we suffer mirror the tremendous tensions of the time. It would be odd if we all saw our problems the same way. No people ever does, least of all a people so varied in character and background as Americans.

Acknowledging this does not mean, however, that we must simply accept these divisions and do nothing about them.

We must do all we can to minimize our differences, to find new footing for broader harmony, to achieve solutions that are widely acceptable. This is a task for leadership at its most energetic and imaginative level, leadership that can come only from the White House.

The divisions cannot be wished away. To sit back and hope, or merely talk, is to abandon the field to men who find a stake in exaggerating our conflicts. They can only be healed by statesmanlike action which gains the confidence of the whole people.

Don't Bar Hubby's Enjoyment Of Helping His Relatives

By Ruth Millett

Here's a letter from a wife who is disgusted because her husband's relatives always call on him when they need a repair job done around their homes.

She says: "My husband is very handy and has acquired quite a number of tools through hard work and depriving himself of other things. His family has the idea that, since he has these tools and can usually fix anything, there is no need of their ever hiring someone to do a job.

"They are forever telephoning my husband to ask him to do something for them, and they usually use the old soft soap. 'Nobody is as handy about fixing things as you are.' He falls for it and doesn't even see that he is being imposed upon."

Well, if he doesn't see it, perhaps he isn't being imposed upon."

Maybe He Enjoys Being Handyman

The compliments that seem like "soft soap" to you may do so much for his ego that he is glad to be the family handyman.

And then, too, your husband may be one of those persons who takes great pride in being able to fix things.

It may be, too, that his place in his family circle is built on the fact that he can do anything.

As long as he is happy doing things for his family, don't let it make you unhappy.

If he ever gets fed up with the demands on his time, tell him a half truth.

Meanwhile, be thankful your husband is spending his spare time in such a harmless way. A lot of wives who complain that they never know where their husbands are, or that their husbands spend all of their time in taverns, would no doubt envy you.

Our Brave Youngsters

When they get around to passing out awards again in the medical field, we hope the authorities can find it in their hearts to give a group—or perhaps we should say a mass—citation to the thousands of youngsters now submitting to the Salk anti-polio vaccine tests.

With varying degrees of bravery, these kids are serving as medical pioneers in a project that could wipe out one of our worst remaining scourges. To some of them the hypodermic needle must look as big as an atomic cannon.

Manners Make Friends

The wife who accompanies her husband on a business trip, or to a convention, is duty-bound to be gracious and friendly toward all of her husband's business associates and their wives.

The wife who isn't prepared to do that ought to accompany her husband only on pleasure jaunts—never on business trips.

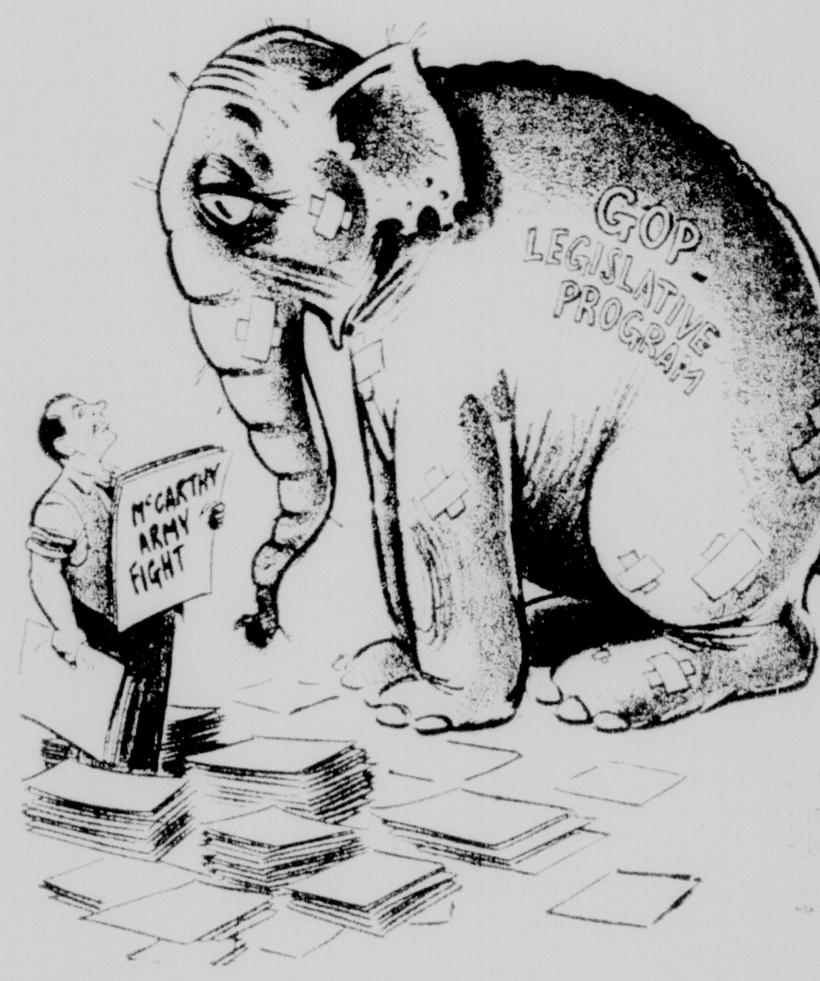

The good listener is the one who listens with as much enthusiasm as he talks. The deadpan listener is even worse than the expressionless talker.

That's because the deadpan listener is saying in effect, "You're not making any impression on me at all."

Mind If I Have Equal Breathing Time?

The World Today... Stevens a Model of Mildness

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON—If you baited him on the jaw, Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens might hit you back. Maybe not until you'd baited him a couple of times. But it would be out of character if he named you.

He acts like a man born without a snarl. Mid as a duck on a rock, he has sat patiently day after day while Sen. McCarthy quizzed him, tried to belittle him and questioned his honesty by urging him to be honest.

Stevens' public career may be at stake in the Senate inquiry into McCarthy's fight with Army officials. And he has blinked steadily through the pounding. But he has a habit of blinking. It adds to his look of mildness.

Only a few times has he shown any heat in answering McCarthy's questions.

There may be another Stevens, one who can gasp with fury. And maybe he has made it a rule, since he's head of the Army, that in public he must be a model of self-control.

More likely this is the real Stevens at the Senate hearings: a man with white hair and eyeglasses, both of them always in place. One newspaper has noted he even wears the same gray suit every day.

The inquiry is now in its 11th day and he's been the same every day. He has never lost his temper, seldom showed impatience and never barked at McCarthy.

He seems incapable of it. He has answered questions "yes" or "no" sometimes, sometimes been roundabout and sometimes been so vague that he had to be urged to get to the point by McCarthy and Ray H. Jenkins, special counsel to the investigating subcommittee.

From the records, and the story he tells, McCarthy and his aides belittled Stevens twice before he belted back.

He didn't publicly take a stand against McCarthy until he said the senator insulted a general. And the report in which he said McCarthy and his aides spelled pressure to get special treatment for a draftee wasn't released until months after he said the pressure had been first applied.

McCarthy gives another picture of Stevens, of a man working behind the scenes to force McCarthy to give up his search for Communists in the Army.

It may be, too, that his place in his family circle is built on the fact that he can do anything.

As long as he is happy doing things for his family, don't let it make you unhappy.

If he ever gets fed up with the demands on his time, tell him a half truth.

Meanwhile, be thankful your husband is spending his spare time in such a harmless way. A lot of wives who complain that they never know where their husbands are, or that their husbands spend all of their time in taverns, would no doubt envy you.

Yesterday's Games--

Lemon Has 4-0 Mark, Getting Past May Jinx

By BEN PHILEGAR
AP Sports Writer

Bob Lemon looked at his 4-0 record today, doublechecked the date, and began wondering if this is the season he escapes his May jinx.

The 33-year-old Cleveland right-hander, busiest pitcher in the American League in 1952 and 1953, has won at least 29 games in five of the last six years. But May has been his hard-luck month.

Last night, in his first May appearance this season, he coasted to a 7-2 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics. It was his fifth start, his fourth complete game.

Two years ago he won 22 and lost 11 but he was beaten in two of his first four starts and really hit the skids when May came. He dropped five out of six in a bad spell that ran into June.

Last season he baffled Chicago with an opening-day one-hitter and ran up a 3-0 mark. Came May 1 and he lost his first game. He was beaten in his next three appearances, all in May. Once June arrived he found his form again and finished with a 21-13 record.

He has pitched considerably better than he did last night, but with a 4-0 lead after three innings he never was in serious trouble. He walked five and the A's reached him for nine hits, including a home run by Vic Power. Dave Philley's three-run homer in the sixth clinched matters for the Indians.

The weather put less of a dent in yesterday's schedule than at any other time this week. Only one game—Detroit at Boston—was postponed.

Washington's Bob Porterfield, the American League's biggest winner last season, shaded Bob Keegan of the Chicago White Sox 1-0 for his first shutout. Baltimore's Bob Turley lost a two-hitter for the second time this year, 4-2 to the New York Yankees.

In the National League, Philadelphia made it two in a row over St. Louis 10-3; Milwaukee beat Pittsburgh 4-1; Brooklyn whipped Chicago 7-0; and Sal Maglie of the New York Giants was beaten for the first time after winning four, 7-1 by Cincinnati.

Turley's wildness proved his downfall as Baltimore paid its first visit to Yankee Stadium. The fast-balling right-hander walked the bases full in the fifth, watched one run come home on a sacrifice bunt by Eddie Lopat and then after another walk served up a fat pitch that Joe Collins blasted to deep left center for a three-run triple. The hit was the Yanks' first of the game. The victory was Lopat's fourth straight.

Robin Roberts came back 24 hours after being knocked out by the Cardinals and checked the Redbirds on seven hits. His mates solved five St. Louis pitchers for 13 safeties, including four singles by Earl Torgeson.

Mims Chills Hottest Boxer, Looks to Title

BALTIMORE W — Hard-punching Holly Mims, who chilled the "hottest thing in America" last night, has his sights set on a bout with middleweight champion Bobo Olson.

To back up his claim, the 25-year-old Washington, D. C., veteran pointed to a stunning nine-round knockout over Geo. Johnson, young knockout sensation from Trenton, N. J., who had won 17 straight bouts.

"If we can't get Olson, they ought to at least give us Rocky Castellan or Joey Giardello," said Benny Trotta, Mims' manager. He said if a match with one of these high-ranking middleweights or Olson could not be arranged, he would try to line up an over-the-weight match with welter titleholder Kid Gavilan.

What Mims did to Johnson was one of the most skillful boxing demonstrations seen in the Baltimore Coliseum in many a night.

Mims straightened him with a stiff right uppercut, followed with a crossing left hook, and droned him over the lower rope with a triple-overhand right.

Up to that point, Mims had literally toyed with Johnson, who had won 27 of 30 previous bouts, 21 of them by knockouts.

Archie Piroli, Johnson's manager, said his boy was bothered by infected tonsils. He said an operation had been scheduled but was cancelled a week and a half ago.

Piroli said, "The tonsils are coming out right away and then we'll see who we want to fight next."

Stanky Blames Long Battles On Rabbit Ball

ST. LOUIS W—How come all the long games this spring? The way Manager Eddie Stanky of the St. Louis Cardinals sees it, it's that "Ol' Deon rabbit ball and 'someone up there in the major league office' who won't get rid of it."

Almost everyone has taken a crack at the so-called rabbit ball. It happens every spring. Now it's Stanky's turn.

"I'd like to know what's responsible for the ball," he said. "People holler about long games—I say people, not baseball players—but as long as we have this rabbit baseball we're going to have long games. The pitchers will be working from behind all the time. Little guys, weighing 160 pounds, will be hitting home runs."

Stanky, a little guy who weighs 160 pounds himself and hit only 29 home runs in 10 major league seasons, knows about the long game and the pitching problem.

His Cardinals, who have been the victims of 25 opponent homers, while hitting 25, set a new major league record in an April 17 ball game at Chicago that lasted 3 hours, 43 minutes. And just Tuesday night the Cards sent eight pitchers to the mound, using a National League mark, again, the Philadelphia Phillies, who used seven hurlers for a combined total of 15 that set a major league record.

The two clubs used 42 players in all, also a major league mark.

"The committee that committee? I don't know. There must be a committee—in charge of baseballs—must like to see the ball go out of the park. If people like home runs, all right, but don't complain about long games."

"Someone up there in the major league office must enjoy seeing the ball go out of the park. He—they don't like golf, or don't like gin rummy, or haven't any children. Only enjoy seeing the ball go out of the park. I'd like to know who's responsible for the rabbit ball."

ARDMORE, Okla. W—Par, the bugaboo to every golfer, presented the same problem for some of the nation's best players as they teed off today in the third annual $15,000 Ardmore Open Golf Tournament.

A starting field of 163 players, including 135 professionals and 30 amateurs, tackled the tough 6,483-yard par-70 Dornick Hills Country Club course in the first round of the 72-hole event ending Sunday. Although par was the main point of contention for a field which included four former National Open champions and two Professional Golfers Assn. kingspins, chief item of conversation was money.

The sponsoring Waco Turners, who provide the cash which attracts golfers of this oil-rich southern Oklahoma city, haven't revealed yet how much prize money they will give away but it's a sure bet the total pot will be around $50,000.

This amount will include bonus prizes from $15 for birdies up to $2,500 for a hole in one plus other cash awards to be offered as the tourney progresses.

Most of the pros, including Byron Nelson, Cary Middlecoff, Lloyd Mangrum and Julius Boros, former National Open champions, said they figure that par golf should win a substantial sum.

Earl Stewart Jr. of Dallas won the top prize of $6,900 last year with 282, two over par.

The finger points to E. J. Dutch Harrison, host pro, as the logical man to beat. He currently has a 6803 average for his efforts on the winter tour and leads the race for the coveted Vardon Trophy.

He will be playing his home links but, as Harrison puts it, "This course gets harder the more you play it."

May Send T-H Back to Let Dems Be Heard

WASHINGTON (P) — Georgia's Sen. Russell said today he would vote to send the Taft-Hartley revision bill back to the Labor Committee "if it can be shown that Democrats on that committee did not have 'the fullest and freest right' to have their proposals considered there."

Russell, sometimes considered an unofficial spokesman for Southern Democrats, said in an interview:

"Denying a minority their rights in committee is no way to run a committee."

The Senate may vote tomorrow on a Democratic move to send the bill back to committee. If the move succeeds it may kill the measure for this session.

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) of the Labor Committee told the Senate when Taft-Hartley's revision debate opened Monday that committee Republicans "reluctantly agreed" to limit the bill to changes in the law specifically recommended by President Eisenhower. Democrats have charged steamroller tactics were used to block their proposed amendments.

The committee measure was reported out for debate along strict party lines 7-6. In the Senate as a whole the Democrats outnumber Republicans by one. But there has been a question as to whether the Southern Democrats would go along with their Northern colleagues in a vote to send the bill back to committee.

Russell, who is not a Labor Committee member, said no committee of Congress should limit its discussion of legislation "to whatever the President happens to recommend." He continued:

"We are not a coequal branch of government if we can't consider motions beyond the President's recommendations."

The Senate agreed yesterday to limit debate to 90 minutes, starting tomorrow, on each amendment or motion of the committee bill. Debate on the bill itself will be limited to two hours, divided equally between those for and those against.

The motion to recommit is likely to provide the first test of Republican efforts to pass Eisenhower's Taft-Hartley revision program designed to reinforce the "basic objectives" of the present law.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, expressed confidence Republicans can defeat the move and predict final passage of the bill next week. But Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said the vote would be "very close."

Bostonians Will Scare Starlings With Record

BOSTON (P) — Flocks of starlings have been ruining the sleep of Quincy residents near the Fore River Bridge. With a novel plan to scare the birds away, the Public Works Department has obtained approval for purchase of a tape-recording outfit.

Frightened cries of captured starlings will be recorded and played back to the flocks at the bridge.

HENS IN THE SPOTLIGHT — "Blackie" and "Mrs. Whitey," a couple of hens living in adjoining states, are enjoying a lot of attention these days. In the top photo, Blackie glares defiantly at "Calie," the cat, right, as the hen mothers the cat's kittens. Blackie's baby chicks disappeared from her nest not long ago, so the hen waited until the cat went for a stroll and then took over the mother role of Calie's five six-weeks-old kittens on the farm of Arthur Hughes in Elwood, Kans. In the lower photo, a group of pre-school-age children at the Fort Leavenworth, Kans., General George S. Patton school, have a look at the central figure in their classroom project. A docile hen, "Mrs. Whitey," the center of attraction, was obtained by the children's teacher. Then 15 eggs were purchased and placed in a hay-lined bushel basket. The experiment progressed until all but one of the chicks were hatched. Now the youngsters watch with glee as Mrs. Whitey mothers her brood. (NEA Telephone)

Man Is Convicted Of 4-Year-Old Crime

BENTON, Mo. (P) — A 16-year-old boy from the Syracuse, N.Y., police from the Syracuse, N.Y., was guest speaker at the Lincoln Methodist Church Sunday evening, to a four-year-old robbery which ended in the conviction and sentencing of a Flint, Mich., man to five years in prison here yesterday.

After deliberating 15 minutes, a Circuit Court jury found James Wallace guilty on an armed robbery charge in the $1,000 holdup of a Gideon, Mo., lumber company on Oct. 1, 1949.

Wallace was arrested in Syracuse after telephoning a drunken confession to the Herald-Journal from a Syracuse beer garden on May 5 of last year. A second man involved in the robbery is serving a 12-year sentence.

Mac Refuses To Tell Who Got Letter

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new storm over monitored telephone conversations seemed to be blowing up today for senators already beset by bitter wrangling over data offered in their probe of the McCarthy-Army row.

(This is yesterday's hearing report. See page one for today's story.)

From sources close to Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), unwilling to be named, came word that he or his aides intended to question whether the Army was withholding from the Senate investigations subcommittee some telephone conversations on which shorthand notes were taken.

The Army, through its special counsel Joseph N. Welch, already has accused McCarthy and his aides of introducing into the record a "doctored" photograph and a "phony" letter. McCarthy has vigorously denied that.

In a surprise development, McCarthy was sworn as a witness yesterday to testify about the letter, which he described as a 1951 warning to the Army from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover about security suspects.

The senator said an Army intelligence officer gave him the letter. He refused to name the officer, saying that under no circumstances would he disclose his informants within the government.

With the subcommittee starting the third week of its televised hearings, Acting Chairman Mundt (R-S.D.) said both sides were to submit during the day all transcripts they had of any relevant telephone conversations.

Mundt, who has replaced McCarthy as the subcommittee chairman for the probe, told reporters he will demand that each camp certify to the records' completeness and accuracy.

McCarthy has accused Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and his aides of trying to halt his own probe for subversion at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., using as a "hostage" Pvt. G. David Schine, a former unpaid subcommittee consultant.

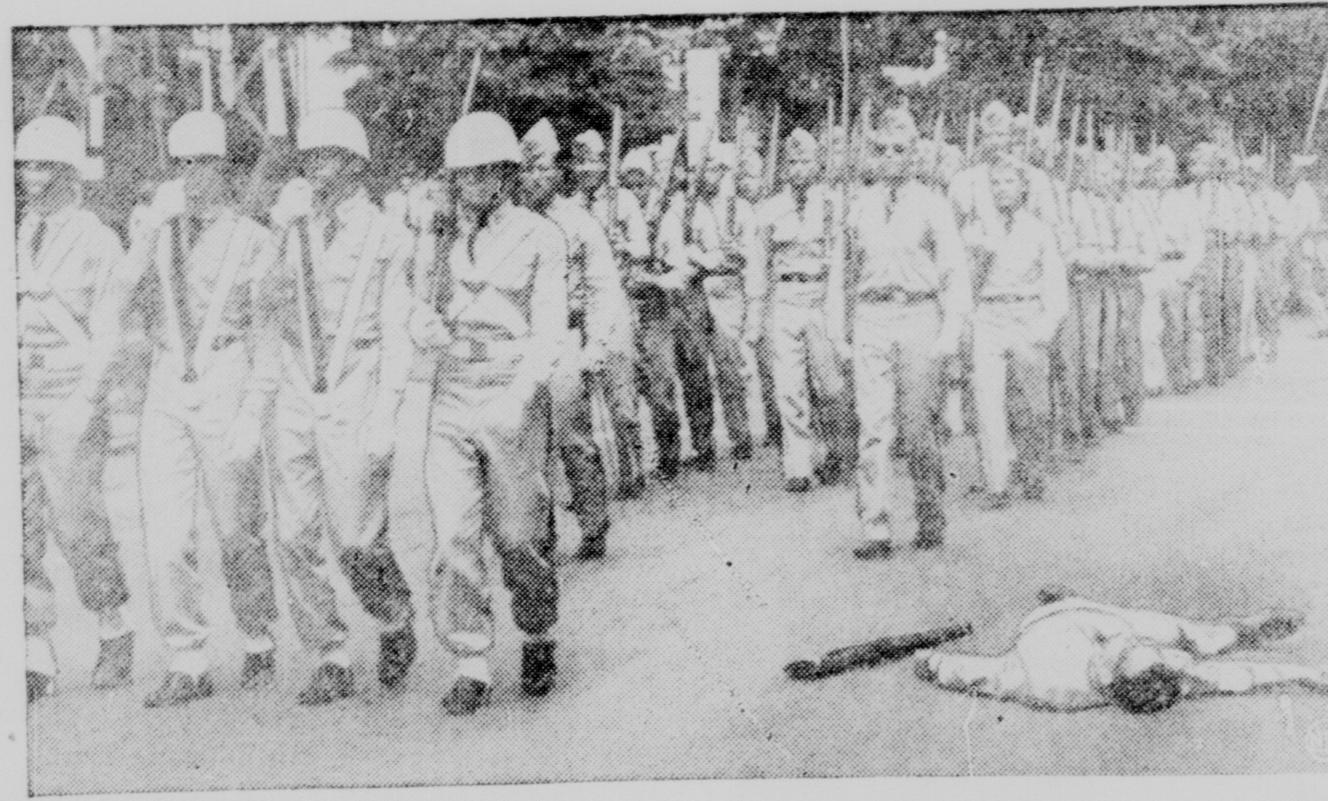

The senator hurled the charge in denying an Army report accusing him and two of his top aides, Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr, of exerting improper pressures to try to win favored treatment for Schine, drafted last November.

Democrats on the subcommittee made plain that they intended to insist that all monitored telephone conversations pertinent to the inquiry be placed in evidence.

One issue involved is whether transcripts of monitored calls can be disclosed legally without the consent of both parties to the conversation. McCarthy has taken the position that all must be introduced, or none.

Ray H. Jenkins, the subcommittee's special counsel, said it might be "days and days before we get squared away" on the monitored telephone conversations.

Although Secretary Stevens was to be on hand to testify again, as he has every day since the hearings started, Jenkins indicated he would first call one of his assistants, Robert A. Collier.

Jenkins sent Collier last night to see Atty. Gen. Brownell for a report on whether Brownell would approve of the public disclosure of what McCarthy had called FBI warnings to the Army of possible

Soviet espionage at its radar laboratories at Ft. Monmouth.

The subcommittee was thrown into angry argument over what

McCarthy had presented Tuesday

as a Jan. 26, 1951, letter from

FBI Director Hoover to Maj. Gen.

A. R. Bolling, then assistant chief of Army intelligence.

Stevens spent only a brief time in the witness chair during the 10th day of the probe.

But during that time, he testified that he had called on the FBI for a "full-scale investigation" at Ft.

Monmouth on April 10, 1953, months before McCarthy says he began his probe.

"I regret to bring that out,"

Stevens told McCarthy, "but I now advise you that is a fact."

McCarthy's first appearance as a witness came after Collier testified that Hoover told him the 24-page letter produced by the senator Tuesday was not "a copy of any communication prepared or sent by the FBI to Gen. Bolling on Jan. 26, 1951, or any other date."

Collier testified, however, that Hoover had informed him the FBI did have in its files a copy of a 15-page memorandum of the same date which was sent to Gen. Bolling.

Collier quoted Hoover as saying it bore the highest secrecy classification.

One issue involved is whether transcripts of monitored calls can be disclosed legally without the consent of both parties to the conversation. McCarthy has taken the position that all must be introduced, or none.

Ray H. Jenkins, the subcommittee's special counsel, said it might be "days and days before we get squared away" on the monitored telephone conversations.

Although Secretary Stevens was to be on hand to testify again, as he has every day since the hearings started, Jenkins indicated he parent form from the FBI memorandum, much of the wording was identical.

He said, as McCarthy had contended, that the chief difference between the letter and the FBI memo was that the letter did not include security data on each of the 34 individuals but only annotation as to whether the information was derogatory.

Disclosure of such information is forbidden by presidential order—an order McCarthy said he disliked in the Eisenhower administration as much as he did in the Truman administration.

Collier testified that seven of the eight paragraphs in the letter were identical with those in the FBI memo sent to Army intelligence.

In this setting, Jenkins called McCarthy and said he wanted the senator to tell all he knew about the letter, especially where and when he obtained it and from whom.

"I will not under any circumstances reveal the source of any information which I get as chairman of the committee," McCarthy said.

McCarthy declared that of 34 persons mentioned in the letter, 17 were still working at Ft. Monmouth when he began his investigation last September.

He said that when he offered it Tuesday, he did so in good faith without knowing at the time that it was not an actual letter from Hoover to the Army, but a summary of a much longer memo. He learned that later, he said.

The dispute over monitored telephone conversations, first raised in the early days of hearings, was touched on briefly yesterday when Cohn called on Stevens to "explain your consistent violation of federal law" by having an eavesdropper on your phone."

The question set off a round of debate in which Jenkins gave an opinion that "the mere monitoring" of a phone call without telling the other party about it is not illegal. McCarthy and Cohn contended that it is.

McCarthy, who has denounced the monitoring of calls without telling the other person on the line, said he believes his staff will have only one transcript to hand the subcommittee.

He said it was a record of a call monitored with the knowledge and consent of the other party. He declined to give details.

If you can, the Philadelphia Water Department has a job for you at $3.125 to start with yearly increases to a maximum of $3.583.

The city's hunt for skinn people began when the Civil Service Commission approved a change of specifications to require that applicants for jobs as sewer crawlers must be able to crawl through a sewer 18 inches in diameter.

The job entails inspection and maintenance work. Milton Lavine, chief of classification for the commission, admits it's pretty difficult to fill the job.

Protein helps to keep us fit. Meat and eggs have lots of it. Some good sources of protein are:

BEEF is popular with the whole family, and it contains nutrients needed by all ages. It provides good quality protein, important for body building and repair. Lean beef also supplies some of the B vitamins, phosphorus and iron.

In pork, there is considerable fat mixed in with the lean. The protein is of equal quality to that of other animal sources. Pork is a good source of the B-vitamins—being a particularly good source of thiamine and riboflavin. Even though long, slow cooking destroys some of the thiamine, pork still remains a relatively good source of this vitamin. Pork liver, like other livers, is particularly nutritious.

EGGS are a low cost source of animal protein; they require very little time for cooking, and they have many uses. Eggs are served alone or in combination with other protein foods as the main dish of a meal, used in salads and salad dressings, and in making breads and desserts. For all these uses "good eggs" are chiefly as extra foods but considering their food value, they might well be given more of the status of a staple food. Typical nuts resemble typical meats in food value. Like meats, they are rich in high-quality protein, fat and thiamine (one of the B-vitamins) and poor in calcium and vitamins A and C.

PEANUTS and peanut butter have high food value and are important in planning low-cost or meatless meals.

Peanuts aren't really nuts, of course, but belong to the pea and bean family—the legumes. They are high in the quantity and quality of protein, they furnish and may be used as an alternate for meat, eggs, or cheese. Two tablespoons of peanut butter can supply about one-tenth of the day's requirement of protein. Peanuts also make them a good source of food energy, and that is important for their B-VITAMINS—being exceptionally high in niacin.

Grapefruit
Grapefruit, like other citrus fruits, supplies Vitamin C in relatively large amounts. It takes only about three-fourths of a cup of grapefruit juice to supply an average person with the recommended daily allowance of this vitamin.

VARIETY MEATS is the term used for the edible parts of meat animals—liver, kidneys, hearts, brains, sweetbreads (thymus glands, not pork), tongue, and tripe (first and second stomachs, beef only). These meats have especially high nutritional value, because they supply vitamins, as well as protein and minerals. Liver is one of the best sources of vitamin A—a slice supplying the amount recommended for a day. Kidneys also supply vitamin A but in smaller amounts.

EGGS are a low cost source of animal protein; they require very little time for cooking, and they have many uses. Eggs are served alone or in combination with other protein foods as the main dish of a meal, used in salads and salad dressings, and in making breads and desserts. are working to improve baby's diet.

The story of baby's advance on the road to right eating shows less infant mortality, less infant disease, better growth, bigger smiles and appetites.

These are good days for mothers, thanks to the variety of foods that are available, scientifically strained or chopped, and packed especially for the Bib Brigade.

The whole family will enjoy a molded gelatin salad or dessert made with those special baby fruits. Try this new recipe:

Raspberry-Peach Dessert

(Serves 5)
One package raspberry-frozen gelatin, 1 cup hot water, 1/2 cup cold water, 1/2 cup strained peaches (baby pack).

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add cold water and chill until slightly thickened. Fold in strained fruit, mixing well. Pour into serving bowl or individual serving dishes. Chill.

For toddlers, serve plain. For adults, serve with tangy fruit dressing or French dressing, as salad, or custard sauce as dessert.

Note: Try basic recipe with other flavors of gelatin, other strained or junior fruits. To mold, pour mixture into individual molds. Chill overnight.

How long since baby's last check-up? How well is he eating and sleeping? These are timely questions for Baby Week, now being observed.

Minor troubles often can be checked in the early stages when the doctor has a chance to see baby. Also, regular visits provide an opportunity to divert Mother from daily chores of routine that might quickly become habits.

Doctors, nurses, nutritionists, researchers, agriculturists—all are working to improve baby's diet.

For toddlers, serve plain. For adults, serve with tangy fruit dressing or French dressing, as salad, or custard sauce as dessert.

Note: Try basic recipe with other flavors of gelatin, other strained or junior fruits. To mold, pour mixture into individual molds. Chill overnight.

Spicy Raisin-Oatmeal Drops Is Healthful Dish for Kids

A BOY SCOUT and his brother find after-school enjoyment nibbling dry cereal and oatmeal cookies.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

All healthy children dash to the pantry for an after-school snack. When those snacks combine milk and cereal, two basic and economical foods, the afternoon snack becomes nutritionally important.

These oatmeal drops, plus a tall glass of milk, make good eating and good health. Incidentally, too many parents forget that they, just like their growing children, never outgrow the need for milk and cereal in their own diet.

Our recipe comes from Mrs. Agnes Elkins of St. Louis, mother of three grammar school youngsters and 18-month-old twins. She keeps plenty of milk, a jar of cereal cookies and boxes of ready-to-eat cereal for the children to wolf after school or before bedtime. She reports this has paid off well in health and growth dividends.

Spicy Raisin-Oatmeal Drops
(Yield: 34 2-inch cookies)
One cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg, 1/2 cup butter or margarine

Probe of Labor Racketeering To Begin Soon

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — U. S. Atty. John B. Stoddart Jr. says the federal grand jury here soon will undertake an extensive investigation of labor racketeering in central and western Illinois.

The inquiry will get started in about 10 days and probably will last "several weeks, perhaps months," the prosecutor said.

The 39-county territory covered by the impending inquiry is the same demanded and obtained, he said.

Stoddart said "voluminous" reports relating such instances have come to him, mostly as the result of a grand jury investigation of labor racketeering launched in East St. Louis last Jan. 18.

The information he has received, Stoddart said, concerns alleged violations outside that grand jury's jurisdiction.

The East St. Louis probe has produced five indictments, including two naming Evan Dale of Carbondale, an AFL common laborer official.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — A 24-year-old St. Louis man who disappeared on his wedding day after taking $268 from his prospective mother-in-law today had her to thank for staying out of prison.

Edward John Topp pleaded guilty in district court to a charge of grand larceny of the money from Mrs. Tim Kune, Judge Joseph Dawes sentenced to him to serve one to five years in prison, but upon a plea by Mrs. Kune.

Judge Dawes placed Topp on parole for three years.

As Topp left the courtroom today he told his attorney he planned to use the license this afternoon.

Cereal Flakes and Milk Enrich Quick-Loaf Bread

A PERFECT SPRINGTIME meal combines a casserole of sea food with cereal, salad and quick cereal loaf bread.

BY GAYNOR MADDON
NEA Food and Markets Editor
We have a casserole dish at our house which provides the essential calcium, minerals and vitamins of milk and cereal, plus lots of eating pleasure. My wife (we think she's a terrific cook) makes it this way—

To serve 4, empty 2 cans cream of mushroom soup into a saucepan. Stir in 1/2 cup milk and the juice of one lemon. Drain and add 1 small jar of whole stuffed olives. Then rinse contents of 2 7-ounce cans solid pack tuna and add.

Heat thoroughly and turn into one large or individual casseroles. Press bite-size shredded wheat or rice cereal around edge of top and place under broiler just long enough to brown. Garnish with fresh parsley.

US Military Command In New Headquarters

LES LOGES, France (P) — The U. S. military's European Command, which looks after some 350,000 American soldiers, sailors and airmen stationed on this continent, opened its brand new headquarters here 15 miles west of Paris today.

The command headquarters was shifted from Frankfurt, Germany.

The U. S. headquarters was moved to get it farther from the Russians and closer to SHAPE, the top NATO command five miles south of here.

The establishment includes 40 buildings on a 130-acre tract of land at the edge of the St. Germain Forest.

It is the senior American headquarters in Europe. Its commander is U. S. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, who also is Nato's supreme commander in Europe.

Little Hoover Commission Meets To Resume Study

JEFFERSON CITY (P) — Missouri's "Little Hoover" commission finished public hearings and now is meeting to resume its study of cases on recomenhow the state government should be reorganized. The commission, headed by former Sen. Francis Smith of St. Joseph, had to interrupt its schedule of meetings for two months while a special legislative session was at work. The commission has been studying school problems and has been meeting here Friday to get information on local road needs. This committee is headed by Sen. William M. Quinn (D) of Maywood.

A special Senate committee studying modernization of Missouri's mental health program is scheduled to resume work next month. Sen. Albert M. Spradling (D) of Cape Girardeau has not yet set definite dates.

Mother's Day Box-of-Candy Cake

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Mother can have her cake — and her candy, too! For here's a Box-of-Candy Cake you can make her for Mother's Day on May 9.

Isn't this an ingenious present? We like the cake because while it is definitely a showpiece, it's really simple to achieve. You use one 9-inch cake layer and frost it with a rich chocolate icing, then arrange a lace-paper doily frill around it and candies on top. The final touch is to section off the candies with a little decorating icing, so as to give a real "candy box" effect.

We've chosen one of those quick-mix recipes for the cake. Its flavoring of orange and almond tastes intriguing with the creamy chocolate frosting. Buy any assortment of candy you wish for the top of the cake — Jordan almonds, pastel mints, chocolate and cream caramels (wrapped or unwrapped), bon bons topped with nuts, small chocolate drops studded with silver dragees, gumdrops and jellies. It's best to use candies that are not chocolate-covered so they will show up.
